Saturday Festival Set Here

By Chris Holcombe

STREET PROGRAM?

We understand the city council and/or street committee consulted with planners in Waco Tuesday and are looking to a five-year plan of doing or redoing the town's streets. Huzzah!

116-116-116

If we can get four tennis courts in one park, two tennis courts and two basketball courts in another, yet another combination court on OJT campus, Cameron can solve its street problem Right? Right!

116-116-116

Bid was let for the new County Tax Office-annex to be built next to the new Milam Jail. More new construction around the square-mall. Why not?

116-116-116

Most everyone likes to read. And it is an honor to be asked to judge certain contests, like about 30 of us from around the state were asked to judge Kansas newspapers the other day in Austin.

The first dozen editorials were fun, the second dozen interesting, the next dozen fine, the fourth dozen somewhat compelling, but the last dozen in the more than 200 a bit hazy.

City Behind In Blood Quotas, Bloodmobile Due

Cameron is behind some 50 units of blood for the year, and all donors and prospective donors are urged to make plans to give a pint of blood when the Bloodmobile comes Tuesday, August 5.

Hours for donating blood will be from 12 noon until 6 p.m. at the Methodist Fellowship Hall. Quota for this visit is 73 units, but if enough donors show up maybe the city can make up some of the units owed for the year.

Giving a pint of blood is a painless, rewarding experience, when donors think of the gift of life they are giving for someone who needs it.

As long as Cameron remains in the blood program by meeting its quotas, residents are assured of the replacement of blood by the Red Cross no matter where they are hospitalized. This also applies for close members of the family and in-laws, too.

Cloud Construction Bid

Gets Nod For Tax Office

Cloud Construction Co. of Temple was named low bidder for building the new county tax office at a called commissioners meeting Tuesday afternoon.

Cloud's bid was $130,321, lowest of eight bids submitted. Others included BFW Construction of Temple, $138,800; R. B. Butler of Bryan, $139,653; Jones & Williams of Waco, $138,600; Mar-Cal of Bryan, $132,900; Sentry of Bryan, $144,298; SWH of Houston, $142,500; and Ed A. Wilson of Ft. Worth, $137,197.

About five hours later, they were read, if not digested, and scaled for their merit and insight.

I thought by that time I still had sunglasses on inside the judging room, but it was only a haze glazing over the mind's eye. What I needed was a metronome to time the reading for absolute fairness. What I used was the less scientific scan of the speed reader.

It was not my first, but perhaps my last judging exercise. Noteveryone, by any measure, agrees with my view of commentary. The Jayhawk dailies may descend in a cloud of wheat chaff and sunflower seeds to roust 116 for asking questions of the editorialists and then answering them with the questions, like Casey Stengel. I might get a new kind of clout.

Library Friends Set Open House Here Tuesday

Cameron Friends of the Library will observe Membership Focus Week on Tuesday, August 5 with an open house at the library from 4 until 6 p.m.

Plans call for a used book sale, an exhibit of work by Margie Wardlaw, and piano music by Barak Waldron during the open house.

The occasion will welcome new members of Friends and the renewal of old friendships by former members. Visitors will be able to sign up with a contribution for the library.

Gifts given through Friends of the Library go toward supporting the library during the year and includes salary of an assistant librarian to stay two nights a week at the library so that school children will have access to needed books.

Memberships are open at $25 for honorary members (single or couple), $15 for supporting members (single or couple), $10 for sustaining members (single or couple), $5 for individual members, and $1 for students. Clubs may be honored as Friends of the Library by contributing $10 or more.

Bicycle Rider, Car Collide

A young Cameronboy remained in St. Edward Hospital for observation Tuesday after he was struck by a car as he rode his bike on North Houston St. Monday.

He is listed by Police Chief Kent Butler as Allen Anton Zalesky, 11, of 1512 N. Houston.

The accident occurred at 6 p.m. when the boy was struck by a car driven by Richard Andrew Watkins of Rt. 1, Burlington.

He was taken to St. Edward Hospital where he was kept for observation until Wednesday. A hospital spokesman said the boy has no serious injuries.

Everyone is invited to come to the 1975 Milam County 4-H Bicentennial festival on August 2 at the mall in Cameron. Fun, food, fair exhibits, bake sales, carnival booths, dunking pond, pet shows, barbecue, cold drinks, and entertainment are all part of the ingredients for this county-wide celebration.

Activities will kick off with the project fair for all 4-H'ers at 1 p.m. Come and see the exhibits of a little bit of everything from A-Z. Entries in the fair include baked goods, canned foods, home environment items, clothing articles, horticulture exhibits, arts and craft, petroleum power, photography, entomology, rock collections, and targets. Plus a pet division.

The baked foods show will include all types of cakes, candies, varieties of cookies, yeast breads, quick breads, yeast rolls, biscuits, and various other food items.

The arts and craft division will include paintings, jewelry, decoupage, flower arrangements, Christmas decorations, candles, felt cards, plastics, leather craft and many others.

In the home environment category you will find wastebaskets, crocheted articles, pillows, embroidery, and others.

Field crops division will include corn, cotton, grain sorghum, small grains, and a hay show.

Petroleum power class includes a welding, acetylene welding exhibits, soldering, and a parts and tool identification contest for anyone under 19 years of age. On the parts and tool identification contests there will be 10 items for you to identify and the answer sheet will be graded there and all who entered will receive a ribbon.

The 4-H pet show will include rabbit classes, cats, dogs, poultry classes, and miscellaneous pets.

There will also be an open pet show for any youngster under the age of 19. Registration for this event will begin at 3 p.m. and the show at 3:30. Classes will be dogs, cats, and miscellaneous pets. This will be a fun show and prizes will be awarded for the largest dog, smallest dog, best trained dog, and other unusual categories. The same thing applies for the cats division and for miscellaneous pets. All dogs must be on a leash and all cats in cages. If you are in 4-H you may enter both pet shows.

Booths will begin opening up around 3:30. The booths will include the usual carnival type booths such as ball toss, cake walk, surprise package, pitching booth, and dunking pond. Other booths will be selling things like homemade ice cream, snow cones, baked goods, plants, and other items.

Any individual or organization is welcome to set up a booth to sell or display items. The cost for renting booth space is $5. You may contact our office at 697-3382 for further details.

Milam County 4-H Council will start selling barbecued sausage sandwiches and sliced barbecue sandwiches at 5 p.m. Sausage sandwiches will cost 60¢ and sliced barbecue will be $1. Rudy Mikeska's out of Taylor will do the barbecuing.

At 7 p.m. Der Rheine Steins will begin playing for a concert and comedy act and at 9 the street dance will begin. Cost of the street dance is 75¢.

So come one, come all to the Bicentennial Festival and have a good time and help support 4-H in Milam County. In addition to the happenings on the mall, local businesses will be having sidewalk sales and registration for hourly drawings. So come out and participate and help celebrate our nation's 200th birthday.

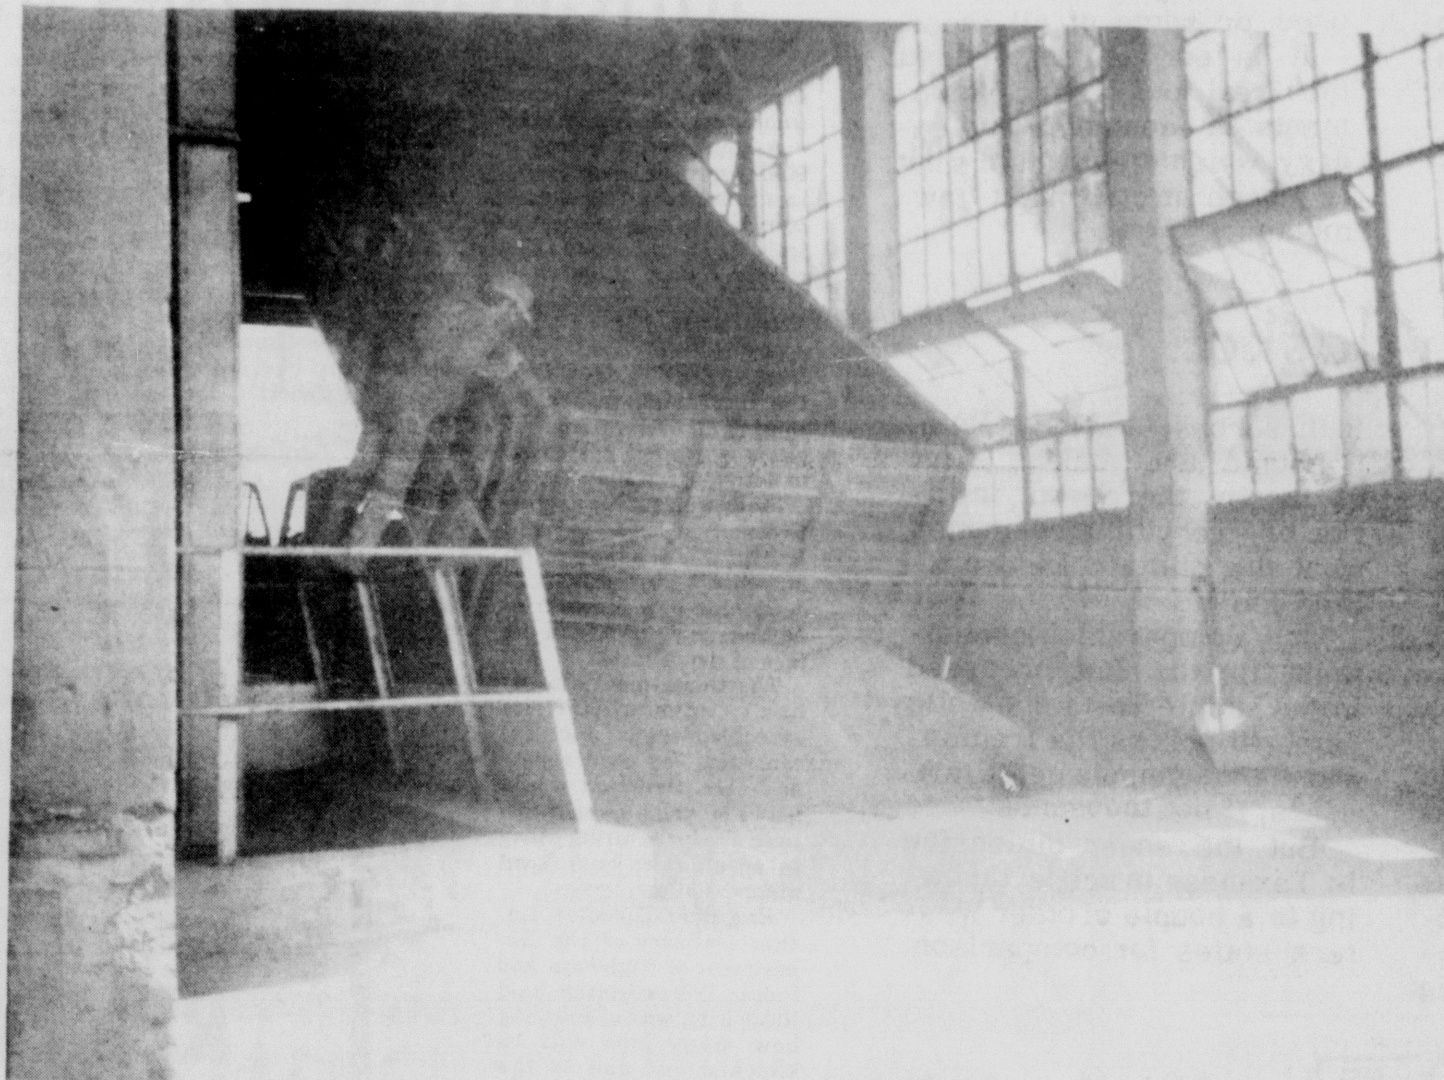

Prizes Offered By Merchants For Festival

As a program of the Chamber's Trade Committee, local merchants will hold drawings for prizes in Cameron Saturday in conjunction with and promotion of the Milam County 4-H Project Fair in downtown Cameron.

Lovic Baugh, chairman of the committee, said the drawings will be held on the mall at 1 p.m., 2 p.m., 3 p.m., and 4 p.m. and that registrations for the various prizes will be Saturday only.

Registration slips will be collected for each drawing. When the winner has been named each time, the registrations will then be discarded. In order to be eligible for prizes at every drawing, one should register in the participating firms. All registrations will be collected in one large container for each drawing.

The following business are saluting Milam County 4-H'ers through this promotion: Sears, Roebuck and Co.; J.C. Penney, Wright's Montgomery Ward Sales Agency; Culpeppers; Bernice's; Mack's Oil Co.; Duke & Ayres; and the Back Door Shoppe.

GRAIN HARVEST BEGINS in the county after the crop had a somewhat late start due to unusual weather conditions. Here a truck dumps its load at Milam Grain Co. A good crop is expected in spite of late cold, early heat, and lots of rain.

School Board Calls Meeting

Cameron school board members will gather for a called meeting Thursday, July 31 (tonight) at 8 p.m. at Ben Milam School office.

The agenda includes action on personnel, opening bids for renovation of the high school gym, and discussion of payment of the bill for band uniforms.

The budget for 1975-76 will be adopted at this meeting and the public is invited to attend.

Experts Using Electric Shock In Battle Against Killer Sharks

By Jerry Teye

PRETORIA

Reuter -- The warning cry of "shark" once sent hundreds of holidaymakers rushing from the sea along Natal's Indian Ocean beaches and made thousands more cancel their hotel bookings to some of South Africa's loveliest holiday spots.

Now experts intend to use electric shocks in the battle against one of the most feared creatures of the sea -- the killer shark.

The Council for Scientific and Industrial Research (CSIR) in Pretoria has just laid an electric cable on the seabed off the popular south coast resort of Margate, to create an electric barrier between the sharks and swimmers.

The cable, lying about 13 feet deep, carries a current of up to 7,000 amps. The pulse of the current corresponds to the highly developed nervous system of an approaching shark which will veer away with the shock. But swimmers will only feel a slight tingle, warning them of the cable, according to E. D. Smith of the CSIR team.

The Natal anti-shark measures board, formed after repeated attacks had badly hit tourism, already maintains a constant vigil along the golden beaches stretching 100 miles on either side of Durban. Their comprehensive system of shark nets have been highly successful in protecting bathers.

But two incidents this year in which one boy lost a leg, have shown the need for even more effective measures -- even though they were the first attacks in netted areas since 1952.

CSIR's experiment with underwater electric cables may well provide the answer.

Smith says the idea of an electric barrier is not new. "I think it was first tried as early as the beginning of the century, and in Australia it was tried a second time about 1930," Smith says. "But there are a tremendous lot of problems associated with it and in those days they didn't have a hope of overcoming them."

The present experiment is also causing headaches and the biggest drawback is likely to be expense. The cost of the equipment is over 100,000 rand ($151,800) and an enormous power supply is needed.

But the anti-shark measures board is giving considerable financial support to the CSIR project, and though tests are not likely to finish before the end of the year, both sides hope that a combination of electric barriers and nets might prove the best safeguard.

The idea of "gill nets" was first brought in from Australia in 1952 for the relatively sheltered Durban beaches. But an increasing number of attacks along the coast led to the creation of the board in 1964.

Although adopting the basic Australian system of overlapping parallel lines of net, the board's director, Mrs. Beulah Davies, says South Africa's methods are now far ahead, in spite of more difficult conditions.

Whereas the Australians move their nets from beach to beach, the Natal coast now has 243 nets permanently in place protecting 40 beaches.

The nets catch an enormous number of sharks of all species, providing valuable statistics on their habits -- as well as cutting down numbers. In 1972, 1,202 sharks were removed from the nets, and the previous year, there was a record number of 1,842.

The death throes of a shark, together with the pounding surf, take a tremendous toll on the nets, and ideally, they should be cleared and checked every day.

But the surf which provides sport along the coast often makes it impossible for the board's ski boats to tend to the nets for days, and Mrs. Davies says the best record of the board was 21 checks in a month.

Even so, she points to the fact that there have only been those two attacks in meshed areas since 1952, and where once the holiday trade would have been badly affected, people were clamouring to get back in the sea as soon as possible after the latest incident.

But some swimmers still insist on going outside recognized bathing areas where nets are impossible.

The masses of data collected on sharks cannot explain why and when they attack.

Alcoa Reports '75 Income Down

PITTSBURGH, PA.

Net income of Aluminum Company of America in the second quarter of 1975 was $18.9 million, or $.55 a common share. Net income in 1974's second quarter was $50.4 million, or $1.50 a share.

Net income in the first six months was $50.4 million, or $1.47 a share. In 1975, compared with $95.8 million or $2.85 a share, in 1974. For the 1975 period, return on invested capital (shareholders' equity plus long-term debt) was 3.6 percent on an annual basis. Return on shareholders' equity, also expressed on an annual basis, was 6.4 percent.

Sales and operating revenues in the second quarter were $577.6 million in 1975, compared with $703.2 million in 1974. Revenues in the first half of 1975 were $1.152 billion, compared with $1.357 billion in 1974.

Shipments of aluminum products were 321,000 tons in the second quarter of 1975 and 64,000 tons in the first half. Production of primary aluminum was 349,000 tons in the second quarter and 733,000 tons in the first half.

Alcoa operates three plants in Texas including the company's largest smelter at Rockdale and largest bauxite refinery at Point Comfort. The other operating facility is located at Marshall. A fourth plant is under construction near Palestine.

"Alcoa's shipments in the second quarter were about the same as in the first quarter, reflecting the continuing recession," Board Chairman W. H. Krome George said. "Our domestic primary aluminum production rate, which was further reduced in the quarter to limit inventory accumulation, is currently about 74 percent of rated capacity."

"Customers' aluminum inventories have been abnormally high through most of 1975. However, such inventories are being worked down to levels more consistent with current economic conditions."

"Orders have started to rise and Alcoa expects that aluminum shipments will move upward in the second half of 1975. We are convinced that a moderate but steady increase is under way.

"As a result of accelerating increases in Alcoa's costs, the company has announced price increases affecting about 60 percent of its products. We indicated in our announcement that the price increases fall far short of recovering higher costs which affect all aspects of our operations. These include energy supplies, transportation, purchased materials, services, labor, and especially bauxite levies imposed by foreign governments. However, at the request of the Council of Wage and Price Stability, the vitally needed price increases, which were to be effective July 7, have been delayed until August 10.

"We have reduced our operating level in all divisions, regrettably resulting in the layoff of more than 7,000 employees and we have maintained a very intense cost-cutting program," George said. "In spite of this effort, lower shipments and higher costs have resulted in sharply lower net income."

Positively 'Iffy'...

It's an "iffy" situation, but the June balance of payments was plus $1.7 billion, highest in history.

Why? Well, oil imports were down 26 percent, according to the U. S. Commerce Department, the least in 17 months.

Experts are otherwise uncertain why imports are so low, off 145 million barrels this six months 1975 over first six months 1974.

If this trend were to continue, a trade surplus of perhaps $7 billion is possible.

Which is a turnaround showing the resilience of the economy.

This is not a sign of breaking away from Middle East oil influence, but it is a sign that people are buying less gasoline or import storage is being put into the market or more local products are being used or some of all these.

It is encouraging, one of the real positive developments in economics and energy which may ordain what is ahead in the next few months.

Texas, There's Alaska...

Everytime Texas considers the question of size, it also might consider the size of Alaska.

Admittedly a lot of it is under snow and ice, but Alaska is about the size of Texas, California, and Montana combined, Reuters says.

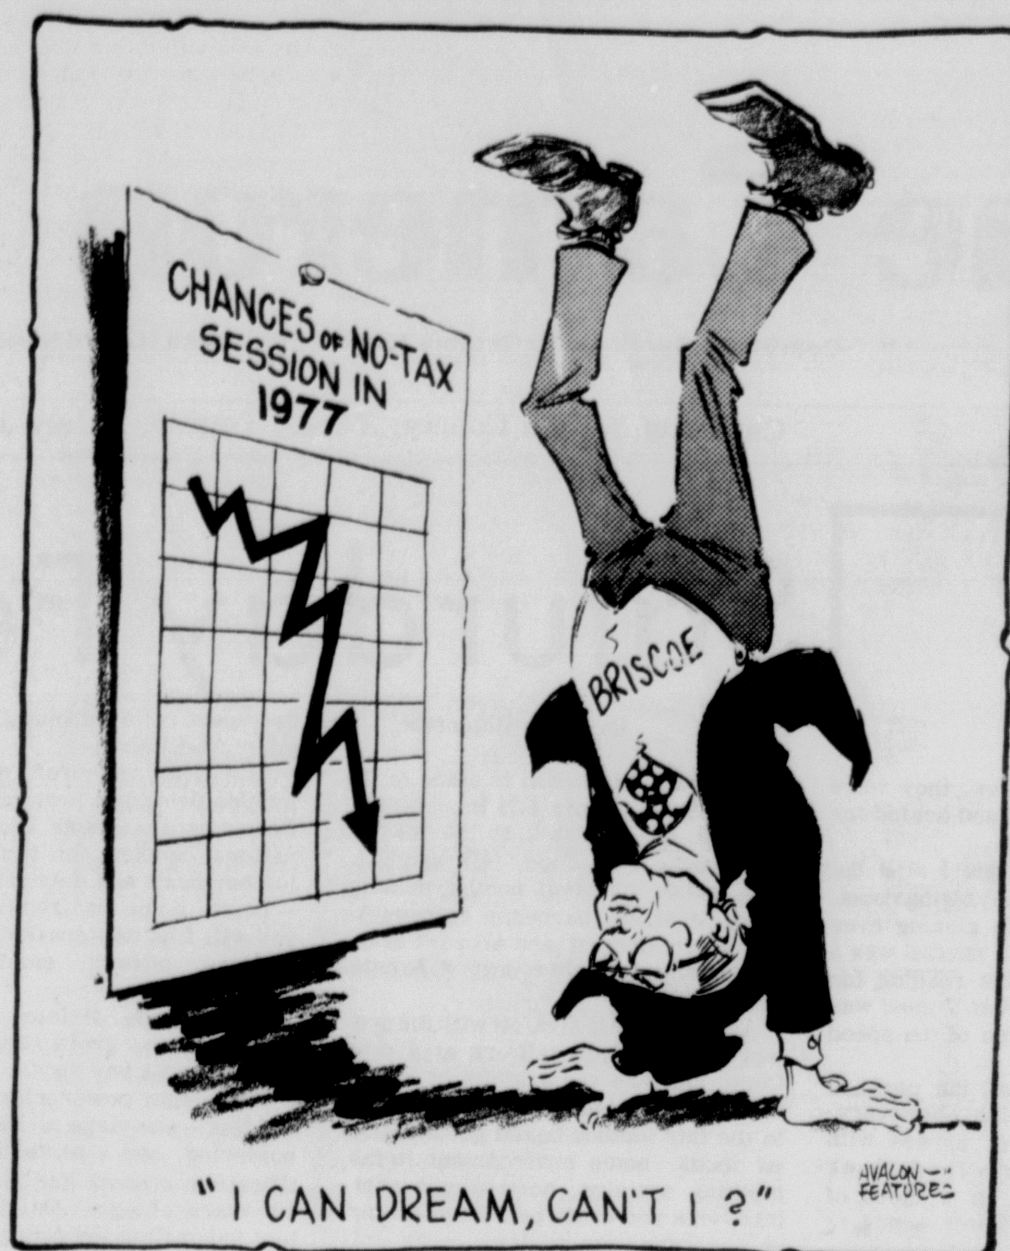

And the oil boom there is going to dwarf anything this county has seen since the early 1900 fields of Texas. Building pipeline to bring the crude to market or ocean transportation is comparable to building the Big Inch across the North Pole.

People are making a lot of money there, but inflation on everything consumes what the climate and workload don't.

Only comparable development is what has occurred in the Middle East when wells came in across the Iranian-Persian peninsula by the hundreds, if not thousands.

But the sheer dimension is Texanese in scope, throwing in a couple of other Western states for comparison.

Inflation Closes In From Two Fronts

Inflation closed in on Texans from two more fronts within the last week.

A court order lifting a 90-day medical malpractice insurance rate freeze (see story below) may boost medical bills $50 million to $200 million a year, according to Texas Hospital Association.

One medical official estimated hospital costs will increase $2 to $8 a day due to the increasing insurance charges for doctors and hospitals which are passed on to patients.

Meanwhile, Texas Department of Highways and Public Transportation launched a 90-day study to determine how it can trim payrolls and services in the face of rising costs.

The Department already has announced its scheduled August letting of contracts for road repair and reconstruction would not be held. It also has practiced a reduced hiring policy in an effort to hold down numbers of employees.

Engineer-Director Luther DeBerry of the Department of Highways and Public Transportation said there is no way of knowing how many jobs will be knocked out due to the study.

He indicated the reduction may be as much as 20 percent over a two-year period, however.

"Watchdog" Job Mapped

"Common Cause," the citizens' lobby, and a coalition of other consumer-oriented groups will monitor work of the new Public Utilities Commission.

The group warned that utility monopolies will try to "capture" the regulatory group. A non-profit, tax-exempt organization will be formed to protect consumer interests in rate and service disputes.

At about the same time, the Texas Coalition for Utility Regulation urged Governor Dolph Briscoe to make public names of persons he is considering for appointment to the Commission. Briscoe's appointments assistant, George Lowrance, said the governor has no intention of doing so.

CIA Funded Research

The Central Intelligence Agency funded $436,702 worth of research in six projects at the Texas Research Institute for Mental Sciences at Houston.

Projects were criticized by Rep. Lane Denton of Waco who claimed studies were "only remotely related" to the state institution's job of research in treatment of mental illness.

Most of the funds apparently went to efforts to improve the polygraph or lie detector. The scientist in charge of the project said polygraphs are used widely in evaluation of mental illness.

Courts Speak

An Austin district judge blocked State Board of Insurance plans to freeze medical malpractice insurance rates at the June 3 level, leaving them unregulated until September.

Fourth Court of Civil Appeals declined to reinstate ousted Duval County Judge Archer Parr. Parr is appealing to the Supreme Court.

The State Supreme Court agreed to reconsider lower court decision that rules requiring unmarried undergraduate women students at Texas Woman's University to reside in dormitories are unconstitutional.

Former all-American football player John Kimbrough succeeded in getting a Supreme Court order to try his $1 million lawsuit growing out of use of his picture in a Coca-Cola ad.

The Supreme Court agreed to review lower court findings that uncorroborated testimony of an accomplice is sufficient to judge an Ector County youth a delinquent.

Dear editor:

A lot of talk has been going on lately over the United States' standing in the world. Some people are saying that we've lost our influence, that other nations no longer respect us, that the world's regard for our vaunted power has dropped, that our voice in the councils of the world has no more authority than a Justice of the Peace trying to over-rule a decision by the Supreme Court, even if he might be right.

I don't know how much authority we have left, but I want to challenge the notion that we've lost our influence. Lots for foreign countries are still learning from us.

For example, lately it has been revealed that government and political parties in other countries have been getting huge donations running into the millions and millions of dollars from American companies doing business over there.

Where do you think those countries got the idea? You know they looked at us, said Look here, if the Republican and Democratic parties in the U.S. can extract vast sums of money from big corporations, let's get in on that too.

And the big companies, wanting to avoid trouble buying bananas or oil or tin, etc., or wanting to sell more military hardware or chewing gum or soda water or grain or whatnot overseas, said Sure, we'll donate a little something to your party, or both parties, or all three or four or five or however many you have, just so the winner stays on our side.

Who says other countries aren't influenced by what we do in the U.S.?

Of course, I have a notion the big corporations wish those foreign countries would follow us a little closer and settle down to just two parties. Donating to four or five can run into big money.

Yours faithfully,
J. A.

Letters to the Editor

Dear Mr. Luecke:

Secretary Earl Butz on July 8, 1972 announced the agreement to sell Russia 750 million dollars worth of grain on a credit, over a three year period, 200 million to be bought the first year. The winter wheat farmers thinking a 200 million dollar sale would make little difference in the price, had most of their wheat sold when the magnitude of the sale became known Aug. 2, 1972. Instead of the sale being limited to 250 million dollars, it amounted to 1100 million plus a 300 million dollar subsidy so the Russians could get the wheat for 60 dollars a ton. Being out nothing the Russians bought a lot more wheat than they needed. This caused a grain shortage which coupled with a billion and half increase in the national debt from it brought about a 30 billion dollar increase in prices here.

If the Russians are getting the grain this year a credit the longshoremen should refuse to load it. However, if we are getting gold, butane gas, or other things we need for it the longshoremen should load it. The completion of this sale will give farmers better than the cost of production for this year's grain crop and enable them to grow a big crop in 1976.

As gold has doubled in price since 1972 had we got gold for the grain instead of the government losing more than a billion dollars it would have made a billion or so out of the 1972 grain sale. To promote detente Secretary Kissinger rejected Russia's offer to give us gold and butane gas for the grain in the 1972 sale.

Sincerely,
Paul Dillon

Dear Sir:

Am sending this little writeup to see if you have room to put in your paper next week.

We both are from Milam County, been away for about 40 years. So we have retired and are coming back to Cameron to live. So we have bought the Hinton Pruett home at 602 N. Travis and soon as its done over inside we will move back.

Our son Leonard is in college at A&M for the next 4 years.

So I do not know how you would like to write this up--but would like for our friends to know we are moving back as Cameron is home to us. Carl Black is our cousin.

Thank you,

Mr. and Mrs. Weldon Black

VA Accepts Less Formal Proofs

Eligible persons should not let a lost birth certificate or marriage license discourage them from applying for veterans benefits, Jack Coker, Veterans Administration regional office director, advised today.

Coker pointed out that for some time now, less formal proof of marriage or birth has been acceptable when this information is required to establish claims for higher benefits.

For example, a veteran's or widow's (or widower's) certified statement of marriage is sufficient for applications for compensation and education benefits for veterans, widows (widowers) and orphan children--provided neither veteran or spouse has been married before, and VA has no contradictory information on file.

Formerly, the agency required all statements of marriages and births to be supported by formalized documentary evidence.

A certified statement also is acceptable regarding the birth of a child of a veteran marriage, and as proof of age and relationship, Coker said.

Greenbug Resistance Continues To Spread

Populations of chemically resistant greenbugs are building rapidly and spreading throughout the Texas and Eastern New Mexico plains regions, threatening serious economic injury, according to area entomologists.

The problem has rapidly intensified because the greenbugs are developing resistance to Thiamet, leaving only two chemicals which are generally effective.

Jack King, research director of Grain Sorghum Producers Association and the Texas Grain Sorghum Producers Board, said Thiamet is "getting only fair control in some places and virtually no control in others, and the resistance is continuing to spread."

"Parathion and Diazinon are still holding but there are reports that resistance is beginning to develop in both," King said. "And the kill time is longer on all three chemicals, in some cases up to three days."

King advised against flying chemical controls for corn leaf aphids at this time. "They (aphids) will probably leave the fields as soon as the sorghum starts to head and what remains will be killed with the greenbug controls."

A farmer with developing greenbug problems should contact his local applicator for information about what chemicals are proving beneficial in this area.

Lamb Crop Shows Increase... So Do Cattle On Feed... Harvest Tempo On Upswing.

Although the nationwide lamb crop for 1975 is down again, Texas' lamb crop is 13 per cent above a year ago, reversing a long-time trend. The Texas Crop and Livestock Reporting Service notes that the State's lamb crop for 1975 is estimated at 1.7 million head.

Lamb losses during the first half of 1975 were less than those during the first half of 1974, due to good weather conditions and less loss due to predation.

The Jan. 1 number of breeding ewes one year old and over was 1,923,000 head, which is 10 per cent below a year ago. However, the lambing percentage for 1975 (number of lambs saved per 100 ewes one year and over on Jan. 1), was 88. This is 18 points above a year ago.

Nationwide, the lamb crop is set at 9.9 million head, a reduction of six per cent from 1974. The Jan. 1 number of breeding ewes one year old and older totaled 10.1 million head, a decline of nine per cent, while ewe lambs under one year were down 16 per cent. Lambing percentage was 98 comparing with 95 a year ago.

Texas wool production for 1975 is estimated at 23.5 million pounds (grease basis); this is two per cent under a year ago. Number of sheep and goats to be shorn is set at 3,080,000 head, down nine per cent from a year ago. Fleece weight is 7.6 pounds compared with 7.1 pounds the previous year. Nationwide, wool production is down 10 per cent from 1974.

A 12 PER CENT INCREASE IN CATTLE FEEDING in July compared to a month ago is reported in Texas feedlots. Cattle and calves on feed totaled 1,264,000 head. However, this is 29 per cent below the 1,777,000 head on feed a year ago.

Cattle and calves placed on feed during the April-June quarter were 18 per cent higher than a year ago. Marketing of fed cattle from Texas feedlots is down 38 per cent from a year earlier.

Cattle and calves on feed for the seven major cattle feeding states are three per cent above June of this year and 16 per cent below a year ago.

ALTHOUGH WHEAT HARVEST for the state is complete, harvest of other crops is gaining momentum. Wheat production in Texas for 1975 is estimated at 132 million bushels, the largest ever.

Sorghum and cotton harvests are rapidly increasing in tempo. Sorghum harvest is now more than 25 per cent complete. Heavy rains have slowed the harvest in South Texas and have delayed beginning of harvest in some parts of Central Texas.

Cotton harvest has also been delayed by rains. The crop will also suffer in yield and quality. Cotton is nearing harvest time in Central Texas while the crop is blooming on the High and Low Plains.

Corn harvest is beginning throughout the state as is rice harvest.

Sunflower harvest is winding up in the southern parts of the state, and the crop is making good progress on the High Plains.

County Agent Notes...

Grain Harvest Aid Available

By Bill McCutchen

Sodium Chlorate plus liquid Urea has recently been cleared as a harvest aid chemical in grain sorghum and some Milam County farmers are taking advantage of it.

William Beckhusen of Buckholts had some of this material flown on by Ricky Randspot who is flying out of Cameron and has speeded up his harvest season considerably. Beckhusen was concerned as are a lot of producers about his sorghum not drying and beginning to sucker out.

The material can be used up to 1 1/2 gallons per acre in water to put out 2-2 1/2 gallons of material per acre by air at a cost of around $4 per acre for both the material and the application.

Sodium chlorate reportedly can be applied to grain sorghum under 33% moisture with no weight loss to the final product and will dry sorghum at a rate of 1 1/2 to 2 points per day. Applications should not be made over 10 days ahead of harvest date as there may be some weakening of the stalk.

Applications should be made with care to avoid drift even though it should cause no hazard to cattle should it drift to pastures.

Adjacent cotton may suffer some leaf drop and trees hit with the material could be defoliated so caution in application is advised.

Hot, dry weather will allow most sorghums to be harvested normally but it is nice to know we have a material that will help if the necessity arises.

Milam ICA Plans

September Picnic

Milam County ICA is planning a barbecue picnic for Sunday afternoon, September 28.

Anyone wishing to subscribe to the ICA magazine please contact Charles Ellison at Rosebud or Gwen Fleming at Cameron. The sole purpose of the magazine is to keep members of ICA up to date on the activities of the organization.

The next monthly meeting will be held Tuesday, August 5 at 8:30 p.m. at the Ponderosa in Cameron. All members are urged to attend.

Walnut Caterpillars

Gene Angell, manager of Randall Lake Farms called my attention recently to a new buildup of Walnut Caterpillars in his pecan bottom and I observed a large infestation of young larvae in the R. W. Wall orchard near Buckholts last Thursday.

These insects are capable of defoliating entire groves and I expect they may do just that if they are not controlled. Defoliated trees will not mature a pecan crop and it will take 2 to 3 years for recovery.

The Walnut caterpillar larvae are dark brown to purple, hairy and bunch up on branches and sometimes at the base of the tree. They have a voracious appetite and can strip a tree in a few days. If observed, control measures should be initiated immediately.

County Agents Set For State Meeting

LUBBOCK

A large segment of the county agents serving with the Texas Agricultural Extension Service will gather here Aug. 3-5 for the annual meeting of the Texas County Agricultural Agents Association.

The meeting, which will be held at the Ko Ko Inn, will be devoted to professional improvement and business matters of the association and will be highlighted by numerous award presentations, points out Dallas County Agent Steve Wheelles, association president.

Keynote speakers will be State Extension Director Dr. John E. Hutchinson; Mrs. Wilmer Smith, a member of the Texas A&M University System Board of Directors; State Representative and Speaker of the House Bill W. Clayton; and Kenneth Wyatt, a curator of western art.

Western Woods

What are the western woods? Symbols on lumber grade stamps identify them as: Douglas fir, "hem-fir" (hemlock and true firs), Engelmann spruce, Idaho white pine, lodgepole pine, sugar pine, ponderosa pine, western larch and western cedars.

Few investments resist inflation's inroads as well as a home.

TEXAS TALK

By Skip Hobbs

Even politicians agree, almost unanimously, that the next quarter century will prove agricultural abilities to be the backbone of American economic strength. At that point the political agreement rapidly dissolves. Strong diversity of opinion continues on questions of land control, consumer protection, food stamp programs, support policies and control of international markets. Even with all the questions a few things seem to be shaping up in definite directions. Most notable is the emphasis on increased world trade. Nations now buying agricultural products from the United States want protection from export controls. New customers are being sought in the mid-east, China, Russia and many underdeveloped nations. Plans are now underway to provide long term storage of ag products purchased by foreign countries. The world market, elusive for years, appears to be preparing to beat the proverbial path to the American farmers door.

Specialist Gives Tips On Mid-Summer Lawn Care

Drought, leaf spot diseases, chinch bugs, and white grubs present major turf problems for home lawns in Texas for the next several months.

"High temperatures, high winds, and limited rainfall create drought problems for all turfgrass species," points out Dr. Richard Duble, turfgrass specialist for the Texas Agricultural Extension Service. "Raising the mowing height one-half inch will increase the depth of the turfgrass cover and provide more insulation against extremes in high soil temperature. This practice also encourages more extensive rooting of turfgrasses so they can more effectively use soil moisture."

Along with higher mowing, the Texas A&M University System specialist suggests watering to moisten the soil to a depth of four to six inches after each application. Light, frequent irrigation produces shallow-rooted turf that is more susceptible to drought stress.

The specialist advises against using soluble nitrogen fertilizers to stimulate grass growth during mid-summer stress periods since they increase the water requirements of turf.

"Leaf spot diseases are generally a problem when lawns are under stress and increase with high temperatures, drought, heavy shade, and close mowing," points out Duble. "Proper mowing and watering will reduce these problems, but fungicides may be required to prevent serious damage. Those containing PCNB, Maneb, Dryene, or Daconil are effective for control of leaf spot diseases."

Chinch bugs and white grubs feed heavily on lawns during mid-summer and their damage resembles drought injury, notes the specialist. If the turf does not respond to applications of water, insects should be suspected. Both insects damage St. Augustinegrass, but only the white grub damages bermudagrass lawns.

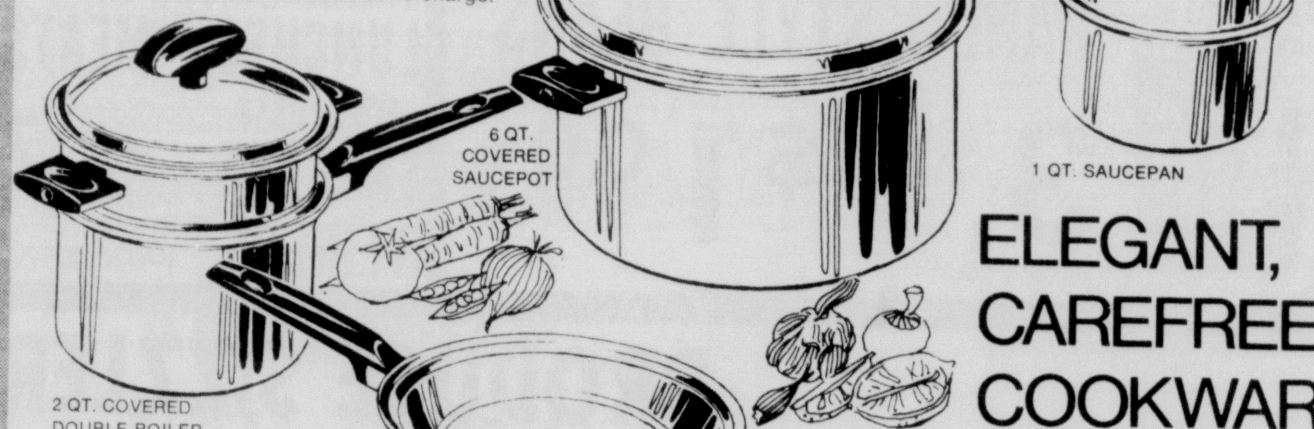

Chinch bugs can be effectively controlled with applications of Aspon, diazinon, trithion, or Ethion. Water the lawn thoroughly prior to applying the insecticide for chinch bug control. A light watering after the insecticide application also increases its effectiveness.

After years of faithful service, Italy's armed forces are suddenly faced with an upheaval stemming from a revolt by the men traditionally considered the backbone of the military—the non-commissioned officers. What has been called the "sergeant's coup" has been thousands of air force NCO's taking to the streets to back their demands for better pay, improved promotion prospects and benefits.

Anti-Communist feeling as heady as port wine is spreading through Portugal's conservative north. About 15 Communist Party offices have been attacked in scattered towns by demonstrators following the collapse of the coalition government in Lisbon. Illiterate peasants are leaving their vineyards and small whitewashed cottages to join demonstrations, some led by their village priests.

nairobi, kenya
A large horned antelope called the oryx may provide part of the answer to Africa's shortage of protein food, according to an American wildlife expert. Experiments which have been carried out in an arid area of eastern Kenya over the last four years have produced startling evidence that in the areas such as the drought-stricken Sahel the oryx has enormous advantages over conventional cattle.

geneva
The European Security Conference could mark the beginning of a new era of East-West cooperation or raise false hopes that will end in dangerous frustration. That is the opinion of many delegates who, at the 35 state conference substantive phase which just has ended here, drafted a mammoth charter to be signed at a summit in Helsinki, Finland at the end of this month.

A call for the use of the cane by juvenile courts has revived a controversy here on the value of corporal punishment as a deterrent against crime. A research officer with the National Trade Union Congress, Muthu Chadrin, has provided a new round of discussion on the issue. He wrote in the Journal of the National Youth Leadership training institute that "in addition to bringing the cane back into the classroom the juvenile court should also cane young offenders."

PEKING
A haggle over the word "hegemony" is all that prevents China and Japan putting an official end to almost a century of war and recrimination. Negotiations on a peace and friendship treaty, which would be the first Sino-Japanese peace pact since 1895, are deadlocked over Peking's insistence that a clause condemning hegemony be written into the text.

LONDON
Permanent broadcasting of the British Parliament beginning early next year looks virtually certain but there could be argument about who pays for the cost of the radio coverage. Four weeks of the first live transmissions of the House of Commons at work ended this month and the consensus seems to be that the experiment was a success.

brazil
Blackboards fill the aisles and teachers replace preachers in the cathedral of Fortaleza, a northeastern Brazilian city as the country fights to eradicate illiteracy by 1980. Since the Brazilian literacy movement was launched by the military government in 1970, the adult illiteracy rate has dropped from 33.6 percent to 18.7 percent, according to official statistics. Last year nearly two million people were taught to read and write.

NNA Endorses New Bill Amending Postal Laws

WASHINGTON The National Newspaper Association has informed Rep. David Henderson (D-NC) of its strong support for H.R. 8603, a bill amending the Postal Reorganization Act. Henderson is chairman of the House Post Office and Civil Service Committee.

H.R. 8603 is sponsored by Rep. James M. Hanely (D-NY), chairman of the House Postal Service Subcommittee which favorably reported the bill last Friday.

NNA Executive Vice President Theodore A. Serrill told Henderson in a letter sent to all committee members that the bill is within the principals of postal policies endorsed by NNA's officers and directors on previous occasions. NNA testified in support of an earlier version of the legislation last year.

Among other things, the bill:

- eliminates the concept adopted in 1970 that the Postal Service should strive to "break even" by 1984. The bill sponsor, Hanely, has stated: "The Postal Service is an essential public service which must receive the continued financial support of Congress."

- establishes a formula of $35 per delivery address as a public service appropriation. This totals approximately $2.6 billion a year and would replace the current $920 million authorized for public service appropriations under current law. The authorization would last for four fiscal years after which it would have to be renewed, thereby increasing Congressional control over USPS.

- has no effect on existing phasing schedules for second-class mail which would continue, subject to annual appropriations.
- changes Postal Rate Commission procedures by requiring simpler legislative-type hearings instead of currently required adjudicatory type hearings and requires PRC to complete its work on rate cases in 10 months.
- eliminates current authority for higher temporary rates 100 days after a rate case is filed; instead, temporary rates would be allowed if the Commission fails to act within the ten month deadline.
- requires Senate confirmation of Postal Rate Commission.

VA Hires Vietnam Veterans

When a Vietnam-era veteran visits the Veterans Administration to talk about benefits he earned through military service, chances are better than two to one that he will be dealing with another Vietnam-era veteran.

The Veterans Administration reports that 69 percent of its 2,800 veterans benefits counselors are Vietnam-era veterans--people who served on active military duty between August 4, 1964 and May 7, 1975.

The benefits counselors are among 28,400 Vietnam-era veterans employed by VA. There has been a substantial increase in employment of the younger veterans in patient-care positions. In the second half of 1974, the number of Vietnam-era veterans working in VA hospitals and clinics rose from 17,701 to 20,133--a 13.7 percent increase.

More than half of the physicians' assistants and 25 percent of prosthetic representatives employed by the VA are Vietnam-era veterans. The younger veterans hold 17 to 19 percent of other medical positions, such as dentists, radiology technicians, and medical administration assistants.

Exhaust Hazard Plagues Campers

The American Automobile Association, Texas Division advises that the U.S. Department of Transportation's National Highway Traffic Safety Administration has issued a warning to owners of "slide-in" or "cap-type" truck-camper vehicles asking them to carefully inspect the exhaust system of their units.

According to the Auto Club, NHTSA has received reports of four deaths attributed to carbon monoxide exhaust poisoning caused when camper occupants were inside their units with the vehicle's engine running.

Apparently the "slide-in" units or "cap" units (a cover or roof over the pickup body), were installed without checking to see that the exhaust pipe extended out from under the truck body and its overhanging camping unit. Exhaust fumes can then leak into the camper through opening in the floor of the truck or camper unit.

According to AAA, home-made camper units might be particularly prone to this sort of leakage since many "do-it-yourselfers" might overlook the potential danger of exhaust systems which do not carry the exhaust well out from under both truck and overhanging camper.

NHTSA's warning urged all owners of truck/camper combinations to inspect their vehicle exhaust systems--even if the campers were commercially produced. The tail-pipe length should be adequate to bring the exhaust out from under both truck and camper and all exhaust systems fittings and connections should be checked for leaks.

The AAA pointed out that this would not only be a safety precaution, but would be helpful in saving gasoline and cutting down on vacation costs.

Digest Tells Of Whales

Of the vast whale herds that once roamed the oceans, only scattered remnants remain. Indeed many species have disappeared entirely. But the hunt for whales goes on, and could bring with it not only elimination of the remaining whale herds, but also destructive changes to our atmosphere.

The August issue of Reader's Digest tells us that of the nine species of great whales, three are scarce, two are on the threshold of extinction, and the remaining four are at their lowest population in recorded history. How has this happened, and why should we be concerned?

While most major whaling nations--Great Britain, the U.S., and the Netherlands, for example--have found whaling too costly to pursue these days, the Soviet Union and Japan still maintain vast whaling fleets and continue active hunting. And not since 1935, when the bowhead whale was given international protection, have the whaling countries agreed to any comprehensive, and enforceable conservation program. Such a program is really only a start in a long process. For despite the fact that the bowhead has been protected for 40 years, there has yet been no significant increase in its numbers.

And why is whale conservation so important to our lives? Listen to author David O. Hill:

"... Their extermination would mean more than just an irretrievable loss to civilization. It could even signal our own destruction: the more than half-million baleen whales that formerly roamed the oceans were an inestimable factor regulating the complex plankton economy of the sea. A major portion of the oxygen in the earth's atmosphere is produced in this complicated ecosystem, the removal of such a key element as the whale could jeopardize the supply of oxygen which supports the life of both whale and man."

Study To Determine Cost Cuts

AUSTIN A 90-day study assessing minimum personnel and service needs in the face of drastically mounting costs has been announced by Engineer-Director Luther DeBerry of the State Department of Highways and Public Transportation.

The study is being made, DeBerry said, despite the fact that during the last five years the Department has reduced its workforce from 19,337 to the current 16,721.

State Highway and Public Transportation Commission Chairman Reagan Houston announced last month that the department was approaching a critical financial era brought on by inflation. DeBerry said, "Last year for the first time in history the Department experienced an actual decrease in revenues. Revenues simply have not kept pace with spiraling costs."

The study by Department district engineers, engineer-manager and division heads will assess workloads to determine the number of people of pertinent skills needed to implement and carry out responsibilities in all phases and facets of the Department.

The administrative heads will report their position-by-position analysis to arrive at the optimum manpower requirements by October 15, 1975.

Safety Group Offers Tire Selection Help

More tires are being replaced these days because more cars are seeing longer service.

The Tire Industry Safety Council offers these guidelines for replacement tire selection and use:

- *Check the owner's manual or the tire instructions affixed to the car first before you consider any tire replacement.

- *If you pick a larger size than the original equipment tire, stick to the safe options recommended by the car manufacturer. He has taken into consideration load ratings, tire dimensions, fender clearances, and rim size in making these recommendations.

- *Never select a replacement tire smaller than the original equipment tires on the car. A smaller size may affect the suspension system of the car, ground clearance, and instrument accuracy, and is not designed to carry the vehicle load.

- *Stick to the same size and construction on all four wheels, if possible, for better car handling.

- *If you select a single replacement tire, make sure it is the same construction as the other tire on the same axle. If it isn't, erratic steering and irregular wear patterns can result.

- *If you buy two radial tires to pair with other constructions the radial pair must always be placed on the rear axle.

- *Unless mixed with radial pairs, new tires should go on the rear wheels for better car handling and safety.

- *If you need new tires before you think you should, have an expert check the old ones to see why. If they did wear out prematurely without material defect, improper inflation or other bad vehicle maintenance habits may be the problem.

*More information on selection and other tire care, safety and mileage tips is available in the Tire Industry Safety Council's Consumer Tire Guide. For a free copy write to "Tire Safety," Box 726, New York, NY 10010. Enclose a stamped, self-addressed, business-size envelope.

Santa Fe Income Down For Year

Net income of Santa Fe Industries, Inc., for the second quarter of 1975 was $22.9 million, or 89 cents a share, compared with $30.3 million, or $1.18 a share, in 1974, a decline of 24 percent, John S. Reed, chairman announced today.

Net income for the first six months was $31.1 million, or $1.20 a share, compared with $56.8 million, or $2.21 a share, during the same period last year, he reported.

Revenues for the second quarter were $342 million compared with $358 million for the same period last year. The $16 million decline reflects a drop of 15 percent in carloads handled by Santa Fe Railway.

Reed said, however, "There are some encouraging signs which are not fully reflected in the reported revenue and earnings figures for the first half."

"The decline in our railroad business has now begun to level off. Aided by substantially increased carloads of grain in July, the gap between last year's carloadings and this year's is narrowing. Rail contribution to pre-tax net was 4.7 million for the second quarter, compared with $12.3 million pre-tax loss in the first quarter.

Engelmann spruce accounts for a half-billion board feet of lumber annually.

If you're from Texas, boast about the little things too.

Everyone knows that things in Texas are "bigger and better" than anywhere else. But has anyone ever heard a Texan boast about something smaller? We mean natural gas rates.

Right now in Lone Star's service area, our customers are paying one of the lowest general service rates for natural gas anywhere. And in these inflationary times, that's something to boast about.

Of course we're lucky to be living in the Southwest, where the majority of natural gas reserves are located. And that's one of the reasons for our dependable service and adequate supplies. So you wonder, "If natural gas is so accessible to us, why are gas rates going up?"

It's simply costing much more to obtain natural gas these days. Higher prices for deeper drilling. Higher prices for the transportation of gas. And stiffer competition for new supplies.

Natural gas is a premium fuel, but it hasn't always been priced at its real value. Lower prices in the past are one of the reasons that demand for natural gas has exceeded available supplies. Some years ago it became unprofitable to drill for natural gas, so many producers were forced to reduce their investments in exploration. But now that natural gas is almost priced competitively with other energy sources, exploration has begun to increase.

In order to assure our customers of an adequate supply to meet their needs, higher natural gas rates are inevitable. It's simply going to cost more than it has in the past. But it's worth it, because natural gas is one of the most efficient, non-polluting fuels available. And that's one of the big things in Texas we like to boast about.

New Treatment For Snake Bite

SAN ANTONIO

When a rattlesnake strikes, pack the bite with ice.

Contradicting presently recommended methods, this snakebite first aid advice for laymen comes from a San Antonio physician and surgeon, who has studied the causes and effects of venomous viper bites for the past 15 years.

Based on his own experiences in treating more than 200 snakebite victims, Dr. Thomas G. Glass Jr., contends cold ice packs and constriction bands are far safer and more practical first aid measures than the more drastic "cut and suck" method, which has been widely used in Texas since early frontier times.

A clinical professor of surgery at San Antonio's University of Texas Medical School, Dr. Glass claims the presently advocated one-quarter inch long and one-eighth inch deep cross cuts are ineffective when the venom has been deeply injected into the muscle, and unnecessary when the victim receives no venom at all, which occurs in three cases out of ten, according to his studies.

Dr. Glass doubts cutting is beneficial in any case, except with professional guidance, and argues that the laymen's chances of cutting a nerve, artery, or tendon are too risky to be undertaken at all, and can cause greater harm than the snakebite itself.

Instead, he suggests that for any venomous bite, whether from a rattlesnake, cottonmouth, copperhead, or coral snake, the layman should (1) apply constriction bands lightly both above and below the bite, where possible; (2) place crushed ice in plastic bags over the bite area to cool the venom and slow down its movement to other parts of the body, and (3) remove the victim to a medical facility in a rapid and safe manner.

San Antonio's Emergency

Medical Services was among the first to adopt Dr. Glass' first aid techniques with EMS technicians now carrying constriction bands and chemical ice packs in their ambulances as standard equipment.

Based on his recommendations, San Antonio Amerex Laboratories has developed a first aid kit, appropriately named, "Snakebite Freeze," which can be stored and used where ice is not always readily available.

The kit contains two plastic bags of non-toxic, non-caustic chemicals, that are activated by squeezing an inner bag, producing "instant" cold down to an estimated 18 degrees. The kit comes with two constriction bands and a neoprene insulated wrapper for holding the ice pack in place.

DESTINY: THE MINOR LEAGUES?

Headed for the "Majors" — that's his dream. But don't count on it, even if he stays in baseball!

For in thousands of cities and towns across America we know that baseball isn't just the major leagues. We know boys on their way up... and men on their way down... and fellows who have gone about as far as they can go. A real ball player is one who gives his club his best—in any league.

How close this comes to a fundamental conviction of the Church!

Christianity gives a man solid footing for his faith in God and in himself. To achieve the full potential of our God-given talents is primary; to fulfill every dream is secondary.

The Church promises no man earthly success. But it helps us to appraise the gifts God gave... to use them honestly and unselfishly. And, startlingly, it points the way to new goals, far beyond our dreams.

What We Could Do

Right now, without learning a new thing from the research laboratories we could save over 100,000 additional lives this year from cancer, if everyone got the American Cancer Society's message about the importance of early diagnosis and prompt, proper treatment, and had regular health checkups.

Glamorous Engawa Links House, Yard

An engawa sounds glamorous, and usually is, but it really is just a wood walkway along a house wall, linking rooms to the garden in the tradition of its Japanese forebears.

An engawa also can serve as an entry walk, dressing up the approach to the front door, or as a series of sunning decks for bedrooms.

To maintain a low profile, the engawa is built of 2x4-inch western wood decking on joists.

Historic Flight

Not many of us know that an airplane which helped to keep us safe during World War II is still operational today. The plane was called the Lancaster and the last complete one in flying trim set off May 16th on a 5,539 mile 5-day flight from Edmonton, Alberta, Canada to Scotland. Once there, it made its way to Sir William Roberts' air museum near Perth, where it sits now.

"Spirit of Caledonia," as the plane was named to commemorate the British Caledonian Airways flight executives who flew it, took five times as long as a modern airliner--34 hours spread over five days. The plane was without heating, soundproofing or de-icing equipment, so the crew had to prepare in advance for rugged conditions.

This last Lancaster, a Mark 10, remained operational in the Royal Canadian Air Force after World War II, but in 1964 it was converted into a water bomber for putting out forest fires. Today the plane, in perfectly restored condition, is a museum piece, but it's a museum piece that made a last historic transatlantic flight.

Consumer Market Report

Heavy supplies and moderate prices make several summer fruits "economy choices" at Texas supermarkets this week, one observer says. "Nectarines--at peak harvest--are estimated to total the second largest crop ever," Mrs. Gwendolyn Clyatt, a consumer marketing information specialist, reported. "Texas-grown cantaloupes are still available with good color and high sugar content. "Also, bananas, peaches, grapes, cherries, plums, oranges, and watermelons are currently worth considering. Top-quality fresh vegetables are available, in spite of hot weather and excessive rain in some areas, the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, The Texas A&M University System, specialist noted. "New crop green cabbage--great for salad or quick cooking--is plentiful. "Carrots, cucumbers, okra, purple hull and blackeye peas are other choices--along with yellow and zucchini squash. At meat counters, prices are about the same or a bit higher, Mrs. Clyatt said.

Most-often featured items are ground beef, chuck roasts and steaks, round steaks, beef and calf liver. Eggs continue a good value with large and medium sizes
